

The Price of a Dead mans eye

Despite having been diagnosed with MS (multiple sclerosis) Jolly Ableman sets out to sail solo around the world (prior to Francis Chichester et al) in a home built catamaran. The resultant fame and publicity will, it is hoped, attract enough funds to repay the huge debt owed to his close friend and supporter Bill Champion. However the voyage uncovers problems which could never have been foreseen, and as he struggles to overcome natural and some not so natural obstacles, Jolly receives help from a surprising (and ultimately dangerous) source, a source which he comes to identify and dread.
